TRIAL LASTED FOUR DAYS.

Hardinsburg Ky., May 18.—(Special.) The trial of John Henry Clark, charged with the murder of John A. Cooke, in March 1906 was held last week, resulting in a life sentence to the penitentiary. The trial occupied four days this time. The jury was composed of the following men: S. P. Drury, Levi Chancellor, H. T. Dowell, L. L. Waggoner, John Jacobus, Josi Bruner, Richard Hawkins, A. W. He worked chiefly in the southwestern part of District No. 2. He had not yet gotten over more than half of the district and considers the prospect good for getting at least as much in the other parts of the county. In one school district 75 per cent of all persons who were seen pledged and in another the percentage ran up to 90 per cent.—Owensboro-Inquirer.

DR. KINNAMAM DELIVERS A SPLENDID GRADUATING ADDRESS.

A large audience was ushered into the auditorium of the Methodist church Friday night by the following High School students: Wilbur Chapin, James Burk, Louis Ditzgenbach, Orville Perkins, Mark Parlette and Raymond Parker, to attend the commencement of the '08 class.

The exercises began at 8 o'clock and were uplifting educationally, spiritually and musically. The orations of Miss Alma Perkins and Mr. Harold Murray, the graduates, were excellent, and won much praise for them. Miss Perkins and Mr. Murray were showered with flowers which were taken in charge by the flower girls, Miss Reba Lewis and Miss Emilie Lewis.

Dr. A. J. Kinnamam, of Bowling Green, spoke most forcibly on "The Advantages of a Higher Education," and made many fine points that they should like to know more about "dipping and the blue back spelling book."

The music was beautiful. The pretty high school girls, who were given special training by Mrs. Lathrop Reid and Mrs. J. Proctor Keith, rendered two choruses that were greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Cloverport is indebted to Prof. Edmund Wroe for this delightful occasion and the entertaining program.

MOREDOCK SUMMONED

Genial Man And Aged Citizen Dies At Hardinsburg—Respected And Loved By Young And Old.

ONCE LIVED IN HANCOCK.

Hardinsburg, Ky., May 18.—(Special.)—After an illness of several weeks, William T. Moredock, one of our aged and most highly respected citizens quietly breathed his last at two o'clock Wednesday morning, May 13.

Mr. Moredock was born near Hardinsburg, March 5 1834. After learning the trade of cabinet maker with the Hon. G. W. Beard and Judge Eskridge he moved to Hancock county, where his life was spent with the exception of the last two years here with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Evans, at the commercial hotel.

A part of the time he was a farmer in Hancock county, the other part found him in business at Lewisport.

In 1856 he was married to Miss Hannah A. House, of Hancock county, and for fifty years they lived happily together, a happiness broken only by his death. Besides his wife he is survived by these children: Jas. William, of Macon, Georgia; Samuel H., of Tampa, Florida; B. H. Moredock, of Louisville; and Mrs. Evans, of Hardinsburg.

He was noted for his social, genial disposition. His home was ever open to his friends and crowds of young people loved to visit there and enjoy the hospitality and sunshine within its walls and nothing pleased him more than to know that he was adding to the pleasure of others.

He was a Methodist, a Christian gentleman, a man whose citizenship enriched the neighborhood in which he lived.

The remains were laid to rest at Lewisport on Thursday.

Mrs. Moredock goes to Louisville where she will remain for some time with her son.

Mr. Lawson Hurt.

James Lawson got his left hand dreadfully mangled at the Henderson Route shops Wednesday morning. He came to Dr. Simons operating rooms immediately to have his hand dressed.

stories of which were all golden in the sun against a sky of sapphire.

Quarrier was alone, gloved and hatted, as though on the point of leaving. He showed a slight surprise at seeing Plank, as if he had not been expecting him, and the manner of offering his hand subtly emphasized it as he came forward with a trace of inquiry in his greeting.

"You said I'd come, I believe?" observed Plank bluntly.

"Ah, yes. It was about that—mattered—ah—I beg your pardon, can you recollect?"

"I don't know what it is you want. You requested this meeting," said Plank, yawning.

"Mr. Plank," Quarrier said, "there should be some way for us to come together. Have you considered it?"

"No, I haven't," replied Plank.

"I mean for you and me to try to understand each other."

"For us?" asked Plank, raising his blood eyebrows. "Do you mean Amalgamated Electric and Intercounty personally?"

"I mean for us personally. We are wasting opportunities. This whole matter is involving us in a tangle of litigation requiring our constant efforts, constant attention."

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Quarrier, but you take it too seriously. I have found in this affair nothing except a rather agreeable satisfaction."

"Mr. Plank, if you are not inclined to be serious—"

"I am," said Plank so savagely that Quarrier, startled, could not doubt him. "I like this sort of thing, Mr. Quarrier. Anything that is hard to overcome I like to overcome. The pleasure in life to me is to win out. I am fighting you with the greatest possible satisfaction to myself."

"Perhaps you see victory ahead," said Quarrier calmly.

"I do, Mr. Quarrier. I do, but not in the manner you fear I may hope for it."

Quarrier said without emotion, "I repeat that it would be easy for you and me to merge our differences on a basis absolutely satisfactory to us and to me—and to Harrington."

"You are mistaken," said Plank, rising. "Good afternoon."

Quarrier rose too. "You decline to discuss the matter?" he asked.

"It has been discussed sufficiently."

"Then why did you come here?"

"To see for myself how afraid of me you really are," said Plank. "Now I know, and so do you. Mr. Quarrier, I want to tell you something. Never before in business differences has private indignation against any individual interfered or modified my course of action. It does now, but it does not dictate my policy toward you; it merely, as I say, modifies it. I am perfectly aware of what I am doing, and I am social distasteful to me in inviting by this attitude toward you personally, what financial destruction I am courting in arousing the wrath of the Algonquin Trust company and of the powerful interests entrenched behind Intercounty Electric. I know what the lobby is; I know what Judge cannot be counted on; I know my peril and my chances, every one, and I take them—every one. For it is a good fight, Mr. Quarrier. It will be talked of for years to come wonderfully, not because of my obstinacy, but because such monstrous immorality had never before existed in this land of ours. Your name, Harrington's."

mine, will have become utterly forgotten long, long before the horror of these present conditions shall cease to be remembered."

He stretched out one ponderous arm, pointing flat between Quarrier's unwinning eyes.

"Take your fighting chance—it is the cleanest thing you ever touched—and use it cleanly, or there'll be no mercy shown you when your time comes."

Let the courts alone. Do you hear me? Let the legislature alone. Keep your manured hands off the ermine. And tell Harrington to shove his own cold, spiny fingers into his own pocket for a change. They'll be warmer than his feet by this time next year."

Quarrier nodded and then his arm dropped heavily, the old stolid expression came back into his face, leaving it calm, brave, almost stupid again. And he turned, moving slowly toward the door, holding his hat carefully in his gloved hand.

Stepping out of the elevator on the ground floor, he encountered Mortimer and, startled, could not doubt him. "I like this sort of thing, Mr. Quarrier. "To see for myself how afraid of me you really are," said Plank. "Now I know, and so do you. Mr. Quarrier, I want to tell you something. tive in a rather bright, new, clean fashion. The man, who was dressed in the sound of the closing door and took his hat and gloves as he newly groomed as the floors and woodwork and so on, as if he were in a room in her swift, silent movements.

"Anybody here?" he growled, leaning into the drawing room at a tiny grand piano set in unvarnished Circassian walnut.

"There is nobody at home, sir," said the maid.

He began to ascend the stairway, hesitating heavily, and then, over the deep velvet strip, his fat hand grasping the banister rail.

Somewhere on the second floor a small dog barked, and Mortimer traversed the hall and opened the door into a room hung with gold Spanish leather and pale green curtains.

"Hello, Tintie," he said softly as a tiny Japanese spaniel hurried herself at him, barking furiously, then began writhing and weaving herself about him, gurgling recognition and welcome.

Presently another maid entered, with an apple cut into thin wafers and a decanter of port, and Mortimer lay back in his chair, sipping his apple and drinking his port, and then morsels of the combination to himself and to Tintie at intervals until the apple was all gone and the decanter three-fourths empty.

It was very still in the room—so still that Mortimer, opening his eyes at longer and longer intervals to peer at the dog, finally opened them no more.

It was still daylight when Mortimer awoke, conscious of people about him. As he opened his eyes a man laughed. Several people seated by the windows joined in. He yawned, laughed, turning his heavy eyes from one to another, recognizing a couple of young girls, and then, as he looked toward the door, he saw a woman coming to get up, but there is in the society he now adorned a stringency of etiquette known as "refinement" and which to become unpopular.

So he got on to his massive legs and went to shake hands with a gravity becoming the ceremony.

"How d'ye do, Miss Hutchinson?" thought you were at Ashbury Park. How do do, Miss Del Garcia? Have you been out in Millbank's motor yet?"

"We broke down at McDowman's pass," Miss Del Garcia, laughing, the laugh that had made her so attractive in "A Word to the Wise."

"Muddy Salsbury," nodded Millbank tersely, his eyes fixed on the woman of forty with a florid face shaved with a kick.

"We passed Mr. Plank's big touring car," observed Lydia Vyse, shivering, "and the coach and the grand black and white hairs from her automobile coat. 'How much does a car like that cost, Leroy?'"

"I don't know," said Leroy, "but I understand a few thousand." He said gloomily, then, looking up: "Hold on, Millbank. Don't be going. Why can't you all dine with us? Never mind run out into the country for dinner. How about it, Miss Del Garcia?"

But both Miss Del Garcia and Miss Hutchinson had accepted another invitation, in which Millbank was also included.

They stood about, vells floating, leather decorated coats thrown back, talking and talking and talking and talking which fascinates people of their type. Then Millbank looked at the clock, made his adieu to Lydia, nodded significantly to Mortimer and followed the others downstairs.

There was something amiss with his motor, for he made a startling racket in the street, finally plunging forward with a kick.

Lydia laughed as the two young girls in the tenebrous turned to not to be in mock despair. Then she came to her feet, her hands, holding her skirt free from her hurrying little feet.

"Well," she inquired, as Mortimer turned back from the window to confront her.

"I missed him," said Mortimer. She flung the coat over a chair, stood a moment, her fingers busy with her hair pins, then she sat down on the couch, taking Tintie into her lap. She was very pretty, dark, slim, marvelously graceful in her every movement.

"Can't you see him tomorrow?" she asked. "I suppose so," said Mortimer slowly. "Oh, Lord! How I hate this business!"

"Hasn't he missed your confidence? Hasn't he taken your money?" she asked. "It may be unpleasant for you to make him understand, but you're a coward if you don't!"

"I wish I'd held fast now. I never supposed Plank would take hold. It was that driving old car and the missing screw me stiff!" The minute I saw him scurrying to cover like a snail I was too foolish enough to climb the tall tree. I've had my lesson, little girl!"

"I hope you'll give Howard his. Somebody ought to," she said quietly. About half past eight they dined in a white and pink dining room furnished in dull gray walnut and served by a stealthy, white-haired, pink-skinned butler.

He had planned to go for a spin in Mortimer's motor after dinner, but in view of the Quarrier fiasco neither was in the mood for anything.

"Do you know, Leroy," she observed as they left the table and sauntered back into the pale blue drawing room.

"do you know that the servants haven't been paid for three months?" "Oh, for heaven's sake," he expostulated, "don't begin that sort of thing. I get enough of that at home. I get it every day, and I don't like it."

"I only mentioned it," she said carelessly. "You had an opportunity to make Howard pay you back. What are you going to do?"

"Of course. You are going to do something, I suppose. You haven't yet told me how you intend to make Howard return it, but you lost through his juggling with your stock."

"I don't exactly know myself," admitted Mortimer, still overruled. "I mean to put it to him squarely as a debt of honor that he owes. I asked him whether to invest. He never warned me not to. He is morally responsible."

CROP REPORT.

Condition of Growing Crops And Prospective Acreage In Kentucky.

The weather during the month has been rainy and damp, with very little sunshine. Farmers were never so behind with their work. Little plowing and practically no seeding has been done.

Oats that were planted early are growing rapidly, but much land intended for oats has not been sown on account of not being plowed.

Much attention has been given to the selection of seed corn as a result of the great interest in Farmers' Institutes and the campaign of education going on among the farmers. We predict a banner corn crop for Kentucky this year.

All gardens and truck patches are very late. More potatoes and tomatoes will be grown in Kentucky than ever before. New canneries are being established in many parts of the State.

Scarcely any tobacco will be raised in the Burley District because of the "no crop" sentiment which prevails among independent as well as Equity growers.

In the Dark District an average crop will be grown and the Growers' Association is securing a large per cent. of the prospective acreage.

The demand for poultry and dairy products steadily increases. Rye, barley and wheat look fine and are very green. The snow that fell on the 29th will not materially injure the growth.

No appearance of Green Bug and Hessian Fly on wheat.

Alfalfa shows a splendid growth and the rain has assisted the roots in getting a very deep setting. An increased acreage all over the State is shown and we have received many inquiries for bulletins on alfalfa, showing that much interest is being taken in this very important plant.

Corn will be planted late on account of such a heavy rainfall, but a very increased acreage will be planted.

In the western part of the State some fruit has been killed by early frosts, as the season in that section is further advanced than in the central and eastern sections of the State, where very little damage has been done to the fruit crop.

The indications point to a prosperous spring, notwithstanding that there is uneasiness displayed in some of the counties of the tobacco districts, but on the whole condition are encouraging.

Mr. and Mrs. Seaton Enjoy Visit To Former Kentuckians In The West.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Seaton and children, William R., Marion Davis and Chloa May, arrived home last Wednesday afternoon from an extensive and most enjoyable visit of three weeks in the West.

After a business visit to Enid, Oklahoma, they started on a journey to see their relatives, all of whom are former Kentuckians. They went to Carlisle, New Mexico, to be the guests of Mr. Seaton's father, Mr. Geo. W. Seaton, and later visited Mrs. Seaton's sister, Mrs. Stuart DeJarnette, who lives at Texhoma, Oklahoma. Then they had a pleasant stay with Mrs. Annie Eurtion, a sister of Mr. Seaton, whose home is in Wichita, Okla. They were also beautifully entertained in Newton, Kansas, where they were the guests of Mr. Seaton's uncle, Mr. James Seaton.

Mr. and Mrs. Seaton were favorably impressed with the western towns and liked the "sunset country."

"The luckiest day of my life was when I bought a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve," writes Charles F. Budahn, of Tracy, California. A Danger Avoided.

It was a wise young man who paused before he answered the widow who had asked him to guess her age. "You must have some idea about it," she said, with what was intended for a kind side-glance. "I have several ideas," he admitted, with a smile. "The only trouble is that I hesitate whether to make you ten years younger on account of your looks or ten years older on account of your brains." Then, while the widow smiled and blushed, he took a graceful but speedy leave.

SUNSET AT GUAYAQUIL.

There is No Twilight, No Interval Between Daylight and Dark.

The days and nights at Guayaquil are of equal length. The sun knows off promptly at 6 o'clock in the evening and gets up at 6 in the morning with equal regularity the whole year around. There is no twilight, no gloaming, no interval whatever between daylight and dark—only a brilliant illumination, the sudden disappearance of a red ball into a blue scene, a spread of flame color over all the western sky for a few minutes and a purple haze in the east.

Then the surface of the ocean, like the heavens, is lighted with millions of strange and shifting stars. For the water is so impregnated with phosphorus that each tiny wave is tipped with light, and the foam that follows in the wake of the vessel is often like a stream of fire. Sometimes you can see porpoises swimming along the bow of the vessel livid with phosphorescent light and followed by a streak of sparks like a comet's tail. The Southern Cross, with the right arm tipped out at proper angle, lies straight ahead in the midst of myriads of unknown worlds that look strange to those accustomed to the northern constellations. Under the left arm is a large black spot in the heavens, brightened by only a single modest star, which the sailors call "the devil's snarling." Over the stern of the vessel in the early evening you can plainly distinguish the familiar constellation of the Great Bear, but it goes to bed with the children.

HIS SERVICES.

What Became of All the Bills He Introduced in Congress.

"Yes, my fellow citizens," said the political candidate. "If you have paid any attention to the work of congress you will have noticed that during the past session I introduced twenty-two bills, each of which was intended to benefit this community. I stand before you today with the proud consciousness of having served you faithfully and to the best of my ability. Those twenty-two bills would, if they had been passed, have made this one of the most favored districts on God's green earth, and—" "Oh," yelled a man in the gallery, "we know you introduced 'em, all right, but what happened to 'em after that?" "Gentlemen, I appeal to your sense of honor. Do you consider it fair that I should be interrupted in this manner? Is it right that I should—" "There ain't no harm in answerin' the question, is there?" asked another of the staidest of the hearers. "Well, sir, I will tell you what became of those bills, my fellow citizens. Every one of them was printed in the Congressional Record, where, if you will look over the files, you may find them today. But to revert to the seed question, gentlemen, I do not hesitate to promise that no man living in this the most splendid district in our grand old state, shall appeal to me in vain if you shall deem it best to send me back to Washington, where I have served you with such signal ability."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Ticket That Came Back.

A prominent railway man tells of a railway ticket that took a sudden journey on its own account. It appears that as a northbound train on the Colorado and Southern road passed one of the stations a passenger in a forward car raised a window, and in an instant his ticket was blown from his hands. The passenger naturally gave it up for lost and was much surprised when the baggage-master handed it to him a little while later. It appears that when the ticket flew through the window a southbound train was passing. The section of that train, which was moving at a rapid rate, drew the ticket along with it, and as it passed the rear end of the northbound train it blew into the door of the smoking car. There it was found by the baggage-master.—Minneapolis Journal.

Emerson's Show Boat Will Bring Hindoos To Cloverport In June.

Breckenridge News, Dear Friends:

I wish to let you know that the Emerson Floating Palace will play your city on or about June 6th, with a big Musical Comedy, and a special attraction, "The Victoria Hindoo Troupe" of Simla, India. This is one of the strongest and best troupes of Hindoos ever in the United States. These wonders actually swallow swords, bayonets, table legs and do feats in magic the equal of which has seldom been witnessed outside of India.

Mr. Vananar swallows a loaded gun barrel and shoots it off while it is two feet down his throat, it seems beyond the possibility of human accomplishments but he does it in every performance, while Miss Victoria actually swallows a 110-volt electric light and as it passes down her throat a most marvelous sight is beheld. The intense light shines out through the body and she becomes transparent, the veins, bones, muscles and circulation of the arterial blood becoming visible. This is I know one of the biggest and best acts on a boat show.

Yours Respectfully,
R. Emmerson,
Manager.

Origin of Pugilism.

Man being instinctively a pugnacious animal and the fist being the simplest and most natural weapon, it may safely be assumed that pugilism, as a mode of settling difficulties, is coeval with man himself. So far as we know, boxing for men was introduced in the Olympic games in the twenty-third Olympiad, 720 B. C., and for boys in the thirty-seventh Olympiad, 688 B. C.—New York American.

In a shop was of white kid, the uppers trimmed with kid of a primrose shade, while the heels and the buckles were of deep gold. Red and gray, too, are most effective, the slippers embroidered in beads exactly matching the color of the kid.

The beautiful, lustrous mohairs, greatly resembling Lyons silks, are in favor this season for dressy jacket suits. Many show the diagonal weaves. They copy all the striped, checked and bordered effects.

Separate skirts are always useful, no matter how many whole costumes one may possess. The separate skirts are needed to be worn with both tailored and lingerie skirts. The eleven gore skirt illustrated is easily made. For the average person it takes five and three-eighths yards of material, forty-four inches wide or five yards fifty inches wide. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Materials Suitable For Separate Skirts. Dainty Corset Cover.

For the separate cloth skirt for general utility there is nothing better as a material than dark blue herringbone serge. There is no question, however, that a striped plaid fabric is better for a separate skirt than a plain material. and morning house wear is a lack of flare. Dainty corset covers are made of all over Swiss embroidery caught together with insertions of Valenciennes lace. The basque that holds the waist in position is cut circular.

In spite of the talk about close fitting hats, one has to search in all the good shops to find one. To be sure, there are toques, and pretty ones at that, but they are worn by middle aged women.

A new shade of glove is the apricot, which is a very light brown with a faint tinge of pink. The long glove still holds its own, as most of the summer coats and gowns have three-quarter sleeves.

Jumper dresses for children are always pretty, and the design shows a mighty attractive model. Short lengths of ribbons, silks, laces and all overs can be used for gumpings when fagoted together. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Celebrates His Birthday

In Oklahoma.

Elgin, Okla., May 11.—(Special)—Mr. J. D. Agnew was the guest of honor at a dinner at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Agnew, yesterday, given in celebration of his twenty-eighth birthday.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brunsell, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wolcott, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Agnew and children, Harry Jarrett and Mary Florence.

The occasion was one of much pleasure to all present.

A great many people imagine they have heart trouble when the fact is that the whole trouble lies in the stomach. The pains in the side around the region of the heart are not necessarily heart trouble. We suggest that you start with the stomach and whenever you feel a depression after eating or whenever your food seems to nauseate take Kodol. It will not be very long until all these "heart pains" will disappear. Take Kodol now and until you know you are right again. There isn't any doubt about what it will do and you will find the truth of this statement verified after you have used Kodol for a few weeks. It is sold here by all druggists.

THE YOUNG MAN IN PUBLIC LIFE.

The man who stopped thinking decades ago and who therefore believes that all questions are spurious except those which he was thinking in his prime, but which have been settled long ago, cannot even grasp the meaning of public life today. Indeed, the latter is a real obstacle to the solving of our present-day problems. Such a public man forgets that every year a full million young men and young women come of age, whose minds, fresh and strong, are thinking new thoughts today just as his now obsolete mind thought fresh thoughts in his day. Such a public man does not understand that the constantly renewed intellect of the nation is yearning with new ideas, born of new conditions; and so he thinks that all new questions are really no questions at all, and would dismiss them altogether if he could. Public men must take their stand on public questions while those questions are up for decision, not after they are decided. The public man who has no views is more dangerous than the denagogue. The man who utters pleasing generalities instead of taking definite positions on public questions is either a coward or a deceiver of the people, and usually he is both. Never in history was there such a day for young men in public life as that which has now dawned. There is so much more to be done than there ever was before, so many more hands needed for that work than ever before—clean hands, strong hands, trained hands. American public life is crying aloud for men who are honest, industrious, and equipped.—Senator Beveridge.

William Jennings Bryan is getting too thick with the plutocrats. At the Governors' Conference held in Washington last week, his place was between Andrew Carnegie and James J. Hill. Mr. Hill, one of the biggest railroad men in America, was a principal speaker. He made a great speech. He said the meeting was, in effect, a directors' meeting of the great political and economic corporation known as the United States of America. The stockholders, he said, are the 87,000,000 people of this country. The directors are the state and federal officers, whose position brings them in touch with the operation of the whole country. Commerce, he said, wherever untrammelled, is wiping out boundaries and substituting the world relation of demand and supply for smaller systems of local economy. If we fail to consider what we possess of wealth available for uses of mankind, and to what extent we are wasting a national patrimony that can never be restored, we might be likened to the directors of a company who never examine a balance sheet.

Some idea can be gained of what it takes to feed the men on the warships who will start on their voyage across the Pacific next month. More than a million and a half pounds of meat is to be supplied. This quantity will include 800,000 pounds of frozen beef, 185,000 pounds of frozen veal and mutton, 180,000 pounds of pork loins, 40,000 pounds of young chickens, 5,000 pounds of turkeys, 90,000 pounds of frankfurters, pork sausage, bologna and compressed ham, 250,000 pounds of smoked ham, 2,500,000 pounds of flour and 100,000 pounds of sugar. Of canned peaches, pears and tomatoes and evaporated apples there will be laid in about 500,000 pounds. Vegetables included 500,000 pounds of potatoes, 50,000 pounds of onions, 7,500 pounds of lima beans and 30,000 pounds of sauerkraut.

Weather conditions for the past week were ideal and all that a farmer could wish. Plowing, seeding and planting were progressing at a rapid rate up to Monday when the rains came again and checked them somewhat. It was a good time for setting tobacco and many a plant was stuck on Tuesday. Plants, we understand, are fairly good and large enough to put out all the ground that is ready. One week of good weather makes a wonderful change in appearance of things on the farms.

THE PRISON BIRD.

This African Beauty Seals His Mate Up in the Nest.

The peculiarity of the prison bird, a feathered beauty of Africa, is that he is the most tyrannical and jealous of husbands, imprisoning his mate throughout her nesting time. Livingstone watched the bird's habits while in Monpour and in his subsequent observations referred to the nest as a prison and the female bird as a slave. The nest is built in the hollow of a tree through an opening in the bark. As soon as it is completed the mother bird enters carefully and fearfully and settles down in it. Then papa waits up the opening, leaving only just space enough for air and food to pass through. He keeps faithful guard and brings food at regular intervals without fail. The female thrives under her enforced retirement. But if the prison bird is killed or in any other way prevented from fulfilling his duties the mother and her little ones must die of starvation, for she cannot free herself from bondage.

Normally the imprisonment lasts until the chicks are old enough to fly. Then the male bird destroys the barrier with his beak and liberates his family. "It is charming," writes Livingstone, "to see the joy with which the little prisoners greet the light and the unknown world."

SCHOLARSHIP FREE FOR FARM BOYS.

Boys Who Attend State Fair Next Fall Will Have A Chance For College.

GET READY TO CONTEST.

A scholarship will be offered at the State Fair next fall for the farm boys of Kentucky. This scholarship in the State University will carry with it one hundred dollars in cash. The scholarship will be offered for the best judging of several classes of horses, cattle, sheep and swine, exhibited at the State Fair. Written statements will be presented by each contestant in which he will set forth the reasons why he placed one animal first, and the others second, third and fourth, and he will explain the good and bad points of each animal exhibited in the class.

The young man presenting the best reasons, and the highest score, will be awarded the scholarship, with the understanding that he is to use the money in assisting to defray his expenses while pursuing the agricultural course of the University. The money will be paid the student by the University Treasurer in monthly installments of ten dollars each for one year. Inasmuch as expenses at the University are not very high, this sum will probably materially aid some farm boy to gain an education which he could not otherwise possibly secure.

The young men of Kentucky are proud of their ability to pass judgment on the points of different classes of live stock, and in this contest they will have an opportunity to compete one with another, with the school as a prize. No doubt this will aid materially in fostering the proper interest in live stock husbandry. It is a difficult matter to estimate just how much value this scholarship will prove in future years, because this is just the kind of work Kentucky farmers should endeavor to interest young men in.

Only farm boys will be permitted to enter the contest. Students of agricultural colleges would have a decided advantage over the farm boys who have not had special training along this line, and for this reason the college boys are barred from this competition.

The undersigned is now working in conjunction with Senator J. W. Newman, Secretary of the State Fair, in formulating definite plans for the competition which will be published later.

Very truly yours,

J. J. Hooper,

Professor Animal Husbandry, Kentucky State University.

The Thunderer.

The original "Thunderer" of Printing House square was not, as many people suppose, the famous newspaper itself, but one of its writers, Captain Edward Sterling, who after being called to the bar and serving as a volunteer during the Irish rebellion finished a versatile career on the staff of the London Times. Captain Sterling was a well known figure in London political life and was father of the more famous John Sterling, critic, essayist and friend of Wordsworth, Coleridge and De Quincey.

Owen Meredith.

Owen Meredith rested his fame on "Laelle," but could never be induced to contradict the charges of plagiarism that were made in connection with it. "What's the use?" he said. "If I deny them people will believe there is something in them. If I say nothing at all the book will be read and the charges ignored or forgotten." He was proud of the poem, and in the circle of intimate friends often quoted passages from it and described the circumstances under which these lines were written.

Heart Troubles

The heart may be weak just the same as the eyes, stomach or other organs. It often happens that a person is born with a weak heart. Then again disease, fevers, over-exertion, anxiety, nervousness, rheumatism, etc. weaken the heart. The result is shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in the heart, or in some of the nerves of the chest or abdomen. The heart should be strengthened with a tonic, and for this nothing equals Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"I had Ladrippo feel full as I thought in a mild form. I was weak, tired feeling, and short of breath; could hardly go about. My good friend began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and in a few days I began feeling better in every way. I am so thankful that I began taking this medicine, and shall not hesitate to tell others how much good it has done me."

Hawkins-Harris.

Just prior to the hour of going to press the Telephone learned of the marriage of Mr. Chas. Hawkins to Miss Elsie Harris, both of Tobinsport, in the parlors of the Sunlight Hotel. Rev. M. L. Payton of the local M. E. church tied the knot.

Mr. Chester Polk and Miss Della Winchell accompanied them.—Cannell Telephone.

Bad Attack of Dysentery Cured.

"An honored citizen of this town was suffering from a severe attack of dysentery. He told a friend if he could obtain a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, he felt confident of being cured, he having used this remedy in the West. He was told that I kept it in stock and lost no time in obtaining it, and was promptly cured," says M. J. Leach, druggist, of Welcott, Vt. For sale by Severs Drug Co.

"You are so preoccupied at times," said Mrs. Fourtly, "that I don't feel safe in letting you out alone." "That is to say, my dear," replied the Rev. Dr. Fourtly, with his benevolent smile, "when my mind wanders, as it does occasionally, somebody ought to go along with it."

An odd creature known as a Chinaman to protect carriers from the attacks of birds of prey. Tiny bamboo tubes are fastened under their wings, and as they fly the air passing swiftly through the tubes creates a shrill whistle, which serves to frighten off other birds.

A Happy Father

is soon turned to a sad one if he has to walk the floor every night with a crying baby. McGee's Baby Elixir will soothe the child well—soothe its nerves, induce healthy, normal slumber. But for disordered bowels and sour stomachs, all teething babies need it. Pleasant to taste, sure and safe, contains no harmful drugs. Price 25c and 50c per bottle. Sold by A. R. Fisher.

"What do you regard as the most important thing in favor of the theory that Mars is inhabited?" "The fact," answered the popular scientist, "that an article assuming that side of the question can be made three times as readable as one taking the opposite view."—Washington Star.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee imitation ever yet produced. This clever Coffee Substitute was recently produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is made from pure roasted grains, with milk, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee. No 20 or 50 minutes tedious boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor.

Work of the Farmer.

The countless millions of our population are fed and clothed by the American farmer. The grain waiting to golden beauty upon the great plains of the west, the cotton drooping like snow on snow upon the fields of the south, freight the fleets of nations and nose their sails, thread the continents with track of steel, fill the earth with the roar of trains and heap for trade and commerce and useful art those stores that make a nation great. Where are the sinews of our strength if these are not found in our great, diversified agricultural products? What victorious hosts ever waved as joyous banners as those from the snows of Maine to the spicy groves of California? What spirit of beauty hovers above southern fields when fleecy bolts unceasing to crown "King Cotton"—Hon. Ezekiel S. Cauder, Jr., of Mississippi in House of Representatives.

A Mole Catcher.

A farm manager at Fodderty, Dingwall, Scotland, watching a mole catcher at work saw some guinea hoppers over and occasioned by the turning of a turnip field in which the observer and others were at work. A particularly large and handsome bird attracted his attention by the graceful way it floated slowly over the drills, intently scanning the surface of the ground. Suddenly, standing still a moment, it dropped, dug its bill into the heaving ground and rose with a mole for its prey. Resting a few minutes, it gracefully began again a further search for food in a few minutes a second mole was unearthed.

His Way of Putting It.

Paul Louis Courier, when bitterly assailed by a French professor, quietly remarked: "I fancy he must be vexed. He calls me Jacobin, rebel, plagiarist, thief, poisoner, forger, lecher, madman, impostor, calculator, liar, a horrible, filthy, grinning rascal. I gather what he wants to say. He means that he and I are one of the same opinion, and this is his only way of putting it."

An African Critic.

Under the heading "Printed as Received," a South African journal publishes a report written by a native of a concert given by the Fauremistic native choir at the Wesleyan church, Kofortyn. In his report the contributor says, "Among the choir Miss Nora Moncho was the best singer, and her cheeks were like an apple, her mouth was like a scarlet, her eyes were like an owl's at night, her hair was soft and curly, her ears were like shankara flowers, but she looked like a crane, and her name was Jane."

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deep by its nature. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. A kidney trouble is allowed to advance the result is a fatal attack of blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away by cell.

Bladder troubles must always result from a weakness of the kidneys and are obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day. It aids the kidneys in the extraordinary effort of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest Dr. Kilmer's of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake but remember, the name Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y. is on every bottle.

BLOCKADED.

Every Household In Cloverport Should Know How To Resist It.

The back aches because the kidneys are blocked.

Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

Mrs. W. L. Yates, 916 Hall St., Owensboro, Ky., says: "I found in Doan's Kidney Pills positive relief from a constant backache and an irregularity of the kidney secretions. Previous to using Doan's Kidney Pills I was debilitated, had no energy and was languid and felt tired all the time. I was restless and nervous at night, did not sleep well and I was subject to frequent headaches, also at times experiencing dizzy spells. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills they seemed to be just what I wanted, and I procured them. They strengthened my kidneys, removed the backache and I am quite free from kidney complaint at the present time." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Follow the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Profound Emotional Senses.

Hold out your hands to feel the luxury of the sunbeams. Press the soft blossoms against your cheek and finger their graceful form, their delicate mutability of shape, their pliancy and freshness. Expose your face to the aerial dews that sweep the heavens. "Inhale great drafts of space," wonder, wonder at the wind's unweary activity. Pile note on note the infinite music that flows increasingly to your soul from the tactual softness of a thousand branches and tumbling waters. How the world is beautified when this most profound, emotional sense, touch, is faithful to its service? I am sure that if a fairy bade me choose between a proposition of sight and that of touch I would not part with the warm, endearing contact of human hands or the wealth of form, the nobility and fulness that press into my palms.—Helen Keller in Century.

When the baby is cross and has yawned and worn out you will find that a little Cascasweet, the well known remedy for babies and children, will quiet the little one in a short time. The ingredients are printed plainly on the bottle. Contains no opiates. Sold by all druggists.

"I, sir," remarked the self important statesman, "was never approached with a proposition of graft in my life." "That fact," answered Senator Borah, "may be a recognition of your honesty, and then again it may be a reflection on your influence."—Washington Star.

Mr. John Riba, of Vining, la., says: "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. There are a dozen people here who have used them and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by all druggists.

Charitable Man (to former blind beggar)—What! Have you recovered your sight? Beggar—Well, you see, it's this way. I formerly lost my dog, and as I can no longer be blind I have concluded to become a deaf mute.—London Telegraph.

For cuts, sprains, bruises, burns, rheumatism and other pains, use DeWitt's Camellia Oil Liniment. First sold in 1862, still the same effective remedy in 1908. Good for man or beast. 25c, 50c, and $1.00.

Moscow's Beggars.

Of the beggars so characteristic of Russia's ancient capital a writer says: "The old city of Moscow could not be easily dissociated from the 50,000 beggars who haunt its streets. The city belongs to them. If the city rats own the drains, they own the streets. They are part of the city; they are in perfect harmony with it. Take away the beggars and you destroy something vital. Some say so old the weather battered that they make the Kremlin itself look older and of those who live at the monastery of the Holy Saviour, a fourthly of them in their neighborhood that they lend power to the churches."

His View of It.

A little boy had been sent to the dairy to get some eggs and on his way back he dropped the basket containing them.

"How many did you break?" asked his mother. "Oh, I didn't break any," he replied. "But the shells came off some of them."

Keeping His Word.

Mrs. J. M. Gentry, of the famous restaurant—Now, for goodness' sake, Mike, don't order Irish stew.

Mr. Fogarty—All right, I won't, dear. Waiter, fetch me another some Hibernian suds or Celtic gossamer.—Puck.

She Didn't Understand.

"Can you tell your present fiancé's ring?" inquired the romantic girl as the doorman sounded.

"Why, certainly," answered her practical friend. "It's the newest of the lot."—St. Louis Republic.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it is "in fact the popular (unabridged) thoroughly revised in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and more exacting requirements of a generation that demands more of popular knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly revised in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and more exacting requirements of a generation that demands more of popular knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the Dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition, and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

TOBACCO POISON.

If You Must Smoke, Puff Your Cigar or Pipe Leisurely.

That it is much more injurious to smoke quickly than slowly is the conclusion arrived at by two Austrian scientists after careful study and experiment.

The two professors, Dr. Liebermann and Dr. Davidovics—tested pieces of cotton which had been placed in the mouthpieces of pipes and cigar holders and found them covered with yellowish brown fumes. These were found to be of a tarry nature, produced during the process of combustion, and highly poisonous.

It was found also that two cigars of the same brand and strength often produced differing degrees of discoloration of the cotton. Further investigation showed that these differences were due to the length of time occupied in smoking. The same weight of tobacco smoked in five minutes produced nearly three times as many yellowish brown spots as if it were smoked in fifteen minutes. The professors therefore concluded that a rapid smoker inhales a much larger quantity of poisonous substance, to the consequent injury of his health, than does his more phlegmatic colleague.—Fall Mail Gazette.

Horses and Music.

Horses are particularly sensitive to music. Guescoe, who carefully studied the matter, quotes the following curious fact: "In 1862 the Fifty-eighth regiment of Infantry was making a military test march when the music struck up. The young horse of Captain De R. hastened forward and placed itself, in spite of its rider, behind the last rank of the musicians. Then it followed peacefully, giving obvious signs of pleasure."

"When the music ceased the captain was able to resume his place at the head of his company, but the band struck up again, and the horse, notwithstanding the efforts of Captain De R., galloped ahead and once more placed itself behind the musicians. This happened every time the band played."

Lions have been found to listen with marked joy to the piano. They appreciate the top notes and the medium, but run terribly when the bass keys are struck loudly.—Paris Review.

Her Sweet Revenge.

Difficult subjects require careful handling, and for this reason a room clerk at a woman's hotel must have special qualifications. One of the many applicants to approach a clerk of this class was a young, prepossessing woman, who, a few days ago, walked to the desk and hesitatingly asked if a room could be had at a moderate price. "Would you like a room at a dollar and a half a day?" With a startled look she replied, "I want one at $3 a week." "We have rooms at that price, but none vacant. You can see that the office is full of guests, and it is not probable that we shall have such a room as you desire until one of our guests dies—or gets married." Sweeping the office with her eyes, the young woman replied sweetly, "Oh, then, it is hopeless!"—New York Tribune.

Changed Accompaniment.

One can hardly be expected to have "music in his soul" when there is discord in his stomach.

Hubbard—What was that that you were playing, my dear?

Wife—Did you like it?

"It was lovely—the melody divine, the harmony exquisite!"

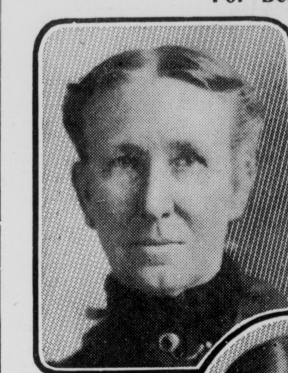

"It is the very thing I played last evening, and you said it was horrid."

"Well, the steak was burned last evening!"—Stray Stories.

No More Throat Trouble.

Mrs. D. C. Nolan, Gen. Kas., writes: "I have no more throat trouble, thanks to Peruna. It is the only medicine I care to have. I always feel safe when I have it in the house."

"I have used Peruna for nine years and I ought to know about it. Peruna has helped me a great many times, and I shall praise it to every one of my friends."

Ever since Peruna was introduced to the public thirty years ago, the housewife has been an ever faithful friend to Peruna. She is that has seen the practical benefits of the use of Peruna in the family.

When the baby has snuffles or cold she gives a few doses of Peruna, instead of filling the system with the doctor's drugs.

When the school children have coughs or colds she again resorts to Peruna.

When any member of the family is afflicted with catarrh, either in its acute form or chronic, Peruna is resorted to. In a large number of minor ailments she finds Peruna a never-failing remedy.

All this has won the confidence of the housewife in Peruna, which cannot be easily shaken by the statements of people who know nothing of Peruna, having never had any personal experience in its use.
